

LaCresha Millner

is a corporate professional with over 17 years of experience in risk management, audit and supply chain management. She has a bachelor of science degree in accounting from Delaware State University (May 2007) and a masters of business administration from Wilmington University (May 2012).

During her tenure at DSU she successfully completed military training and was stationed in New Castle, DE with the 1st & 150th Medical Evacuation Unit as Refuel Special and Heavy Duty Truck Driver. She completed a tour of duty in Tikrit, Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom in November 2005. She served honorably from February 2002 – February 2008 and is a proud Army Veteran.

She has worked for KPMG as an Audit Manager, Amtrak as an Internal Controls Manager and eTrade as a Governance Manager. She is currently a senior manager at Capital One in the enterprise supply management department and has worked with the company since October 2019. She has sat on various committees and business resource groups to support women, veterans and other minorities in the corporate community. She has a strong passion for mentoring women veterans and first-generation college students.

LaCresha currently resides in Upper Marlboro, MD with her husband Baji and son Kaleb.